AFTER BIG FOUNDRY

Navy Yard Issue to Come Before Congress Again.

WOULD ADD 400 EMPLOYEES

Representative Cary to Introduce Measure by Which It Is Claimed the Government Can Save $50,000 a Year and at the Same Time Deal an Effective Blow to Steel Trust.

A bill to be introduced in the House within the next ten days by Representative Cary, of Wisconsin, provides for a steel foundry at the navy yard to cost $325,000, and if it becomes law 400 additional men will be added to the navy yard pay rolls.

A former measure to this end was defeated, but the Navy Yard League has been diligently gathering facts to prove that the foundry would be a big investment for the government from a money-saving standpoint, and would prove a great help to mechanics in the government's employ.

Where the Economy Lies.

"The foundry would save the government $50,000 a year," declared one of the members of the league yesterday, "and within six years could pay for itself. By manufacturing its own steel castings the government would save the enormous profits it now pays to the steel trusts. These profits are considered extortionate by those who are closely in touch with facts. According to the report of the special commissioner appointed by Secretary Morton several years ago, the work turned out by the government would not only prove a saving to the National Treasury, but would be far superior to that which is obtained by purchase from private concerns, anxious only to improve their pocketbooks.

Would Hit Steel Trust.

"By making its own steel castings, the government would not only save $50,000 a year, according to actual figures and facts; would not only receive better work and give employment to more skilled men, but would be able at the same time to deal a telling blow to the steel trust, which would please a great many people."

Representative Cary has consented to father this bill, not alone because he is a friend of the navy employees, but also because he sees the great value it would be to the country at large.

The bill will be an amendment to the naval appropriations bill.

EASTER LILY REIGNS.

Queen of Flowers Draws Much Attention at Gude Store.

One of the most attractive arrays of Easter flowers may now be seen at the flower store of Gude Bros. Company, where every color and variety imaginable are arranged, not only in the store, but along the fronts of stores in the same block.

The Easter lily, in all sizes, predominates, and the wonderful display of rare orchids is one of the best ever seen in this city. Thousands of flowers of every description, varying in coloring, from the lavender of the Bongianna Giabra to the faintest shades of the simplest flowers, are shown.

The whole impression given is that of some wonderful garden of flowers, impersonating the spirit of Easter, with all the touches of coloring that nature can give.

Violets, roses, carnations, hyacinths, orchids, lilies, heathers of various kinds, palms, and trailing plants make the display this year far superior to any that Gude Bros. have ever shown and marks the opening of the spring season.

MARKS WESTERN PROGRESS.

Prof. Blanchard Speaks Before National Geographic Society.

According to C. J. Blanchard, of the Reclamation Service, who spoke last night before the National Geographic Society, the spirit of the West is optimism and progress, and the East should take example.

"Once a wilderness so unpromising that it evoked decision in the halls of Congress," he said, "the West has become today the land of fortune and opportunity. Irrigation has wrought its miracle, and 13,000,000 acres reclaimed are annually producing harvests valued at more than $200,000,000, and supporting in homes of their own more than 500,000 families."

FATE PARTS ELOPERS.

Elliston (Va.), Couple Find Each Other After Day of Anxiety.

Frank B. Thomas and Miss Countess Campbell, of Elliston, Va., were married by Rev. C. M. Hesser, of Brightwood, yesterday, after eloping to Washington and becoming lost from each other.

On account of the ministers' conference, the couple had difficulty finding one to unite them. When Thomas went on a search he neglected to take the address of the boarding-house where he left his fiancée. She joined the search and they became reunited and are happy now and on their way back home.

WAR ON NEW TROLLEY LINE

Citizens Fear It Would Ruin Iowa Circle.

Petition from Thirteenth Street Directed Against Bill to Give Right of Way to Maryland Company.

Protest was yesterday filed with the District Commissioners against the granting of authority to any company or corporation to construct a railroad in Thirteenth street northwest.

The petitioners object to the bill now before the Senate to authorize the Baltimore and Washington Transit Company, of Maryland, to enter the District of Columbia, a bill that is being advocated by Senator Rayner. They believe there is no public need for the street to be occupied, and that the residents, not only in that section, but in all sections, are amply provided with cars crossing the city north and south.

Iowa Circle, which is formed by the intersection of Thirteenth and P streets with Vermont and Rhode Island avenues, would be practically destroyed, in the opinion of the petitioners, by a street railway running around it. This circle is used by children of the neighborhood, who would be excluded should railway tracks encircle it.

Furthermore, the petition sets forth, if it is necessary for the transit company to enter the city, there would be ample opportunity for it to come down Eleventh street, which is a wide thoroughfare and has car tracks upon it.

The petitioners request the Commissioners to report adversely on the bill, in so far as Thirteenth street is concerned.

DIES IN TENNESSEE.

Leonard B. Jay Was Employee of the Geological Survey.

News was received yesterday from Johnson City, Tenn., of the death Wednesday of Leonard B. Jay, a former employee of the United States Geological Survey and Spanish war veteran. Mr. Jay was well known in Washington, being a native of the District. During his residence here his address was 910 I street. He had been in ill health since his military service in the tropics.

D. U.'S AT A BANQUET.

Delta Upsilon Club Holds Annual Dinner at Rauscher's.

About fifty members of the Delta Upsilon Club attended the annual banquet of the organization last night at Rauscher's. Dr. L. O. Howard was toastmaster, and brief addresses were made by D. H. Decker, president of the club; Prof. J. W. Jenks, Dr. S. A. Knapp, and D. Samuel H. Greene.

All the speakers are old Delta U's, and the burden of their remarks related to experiences of college days, fraternity matters, and the relation of the college-bred man to modern life. The social feature of the occasion was the recounting of the old days of fun of the school day period.

The Delta Upsilon Club is composed of graduate members of the fraternity resident in Washington. It contains representatives of all the chapters, and its gatherings at the University Club, as well as the annual dinner, are occasions of great interest to the members. The club has been in existence about five years, and has been successful since its organization.

Delbert H. Decker is president and Robert B. Sosman secretary of the club.

TOWN POST-OFFICE LOOTED.

Inspectors and Detectives Sent to Staunton to Investigate.

Inspectors and detectives were sent to Staunton, Va., yesterday to investigate the robbery of four registered packages from the post-office at an early hour yesterday morning.

No arrests were made last night. Authorities at other near-by towns have been notified. It is believed two men are working along the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad.

Mr. H. B. Farout, representative of the Baltimore and Ohio in New England, will be in charge of the party. The tourists will reach Washington about 6 o'clock this evening, spend Easter Sunday enjoying the balmy Southern breezes of the National Capital, and return to Boston April 1.
